

A Sermon: Preached Before the United Congregations of Wyoming, N. Y. On the Death of President Lincoln (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from A Sermon: Preached Before the United Congregations of Wyoming, N. Y. On the Death of President Lincoln Know ye not that there is a Prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel? 2 Samuel III, 38. These are the words of David, and refer to the assassination of Abner, the captain of the armies of Israel, under the house of Saul. The king lamented over Abner, and said, Died Abner as a fool dieth? Thy hands were not bound nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man fellest before wicked men, so fellest thou. And they buried Abner in Hebron. And the king lifted up his voice and wept. And the king said unto his servants: Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel? The words of David apply to us with greater force than they did to the Elders of Judah. Tis not for a subordinate we mourn, but for our chief magistrate struck down by a treacherous assassin. Yes! Fellow-citizens we know that a prince and a great man has fallen: a man princely in himself, princely in his official station. It may be questionable whether his exalted position graced him, more than he the position. Alas! We know also that this prince, this great man has fallen. The ways of Providence are inscrutable. If it is true of nations, as of individuals, that whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth, that chastisements combined with blessings, turned into blessings, are evidence of Jehovahs love; then may we feel assured of the Divine regard.
