

Germinal (Annotated): Bilingual book (Learn French by reading t. 20) (French Edition)

The novel's central character is Etienne Lantier, previously seen in L'Assommoir (1877), and originally to have been the central character in Zola's murder on the trains thriller La Bête humaine (1890) before the overwhelmingly positive reaction to Germinal persuaded him otherwise. The young migrant worker arrives at the forbidding coal mining town of Montsou in the bleak area of the far north of France to earn a living as a miner. Sacked from his previous job on the railways for assaulting a superior, Etienne befriends the veteran miner Maheu, who finds him somewhere to stay and gets him a job pushing the carts down the pit. Etienne is portrayed as a hard-working idealist but also a naive youth; Zola's genetic theories come into play as Etienne is presumed to have inherited his Maquet ancestors' traits of hotheaded impulsiveness and an addictive personality capable of exploding into rage under the influence of drink or strong passions. Zola keeps his theorizing in the background and Etienne's motivations are much more natural as a result. He embraces socialist principles, reading large amounts of working class movement literature and fraternizing with Souvarine, a Russian anarchist and political emigre who has also come to Montsou to seek a living in the pits. Etienne's simplistic understanding of socialist politics and their rousing effect on him are very reminiscent of the rebel Silvere in the first novel in the cycle, La Fortune des Rougon (1871).
