

The Awareness Principle: A Radical New Philosophy of Life, Science & Religion

If people get lost in thought or in their emotions, in their work or chores - or in any element of their everyday activity and experience - then they may be conscious but they are not aware. Awareness of the different elements of our conscious action and experience frees us from restricting attachments to them - from a confining identification of ourselves with anything we think, feel or do. This Awareness Principle is both a liberatory life principle and a life practice of a sort long recognised in yogic philosophy. As well as being a healing and freeing life principle and practice, The Awareness Principle is also a new foundational principle for the sciences and religion - offering the sole possible philosophical basis for both a new Theology and a truly scientific Theory of Everything. For the most fundamental scientific fact is not the objective existence of a manifest universe of bodies in space and time but awareness of that universe. In contrast to all current pseudo-scientific attempts to explain awareness or consciousness however, The Awareness Principle is the recognition that awareness cannot - in principle - be explained by or reduced to any thing whatsoever that we are aware of, whether it be matter, energy or the human body and brain. Awareness is neither a by-product of our bodies and brains nor the private property of any being or beings - human or divine. What we call God is neither Being with a big B nor some Supreme Being with awareness. Instead God is awareness - and the entire universe its manifestation. And just as there can be nothing outside space or before time so there can be nothing outside or before the absolute and divine Awareness that is God. Neither the Big Bang of physics, the Big Being of philosophy nor a Supreme Being of the sort worshipped in the Abrahamic faiths - all expressions of The Being Principle - can explain the fundamental nature of God and the Universe. The Awareness Principle can, based as it is on the recognition that: The being of all things that exist in awareness in turn depends on awareness. (Abhinavagupta) Peter Wilbergs writings on The Awareness Principle, collected for the first time in this volume, reaffirm and rearticulate in a new and clear cut way a centuries-old understanding of Indian tantric philosophy - namely that the 1st Principle of the universe is not matter or energy but the innate potentials and power (Shakti) of pure awareness (Shiva).
